Sofia also reports the repulse of the Russian and Rumanians who were trying to advance south to the Constanza railway, where Bucharest has claimed a substantial gain.

Berlin, Oct 5.—By wireless to Sayville—Further details of alleged Rumanian atrocities in Dobrudja says the Overseas news agency are contained in a report from the Sofia correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung who, with several other correspondents and Wm Warfield, the American chargé d'affaires at Sofia investigated reports in Dobrie (Bazardjik); Silistra and surrounding towns and villages. The correspondent writes:

"Everywhere we followed traces of assassination and incendiarism and everywhere there was the same complaint about the loss of life and property. Entire villages were destroyed."

The baby was left with relatives in Illinois and the father took the older child and came to Indian territory. Then the father died. THESE RED SOX UTILITY MEN HOPE TO STAR IN THE WORLD'S SERIES

TRIAL MARRIAGE QUITE THE THING IN FAR NORTH

MOVIE MAN TELLS STRANGE TALES OF BLONDE ESKIMOS

GIRLS ARE BY NO MEANS WITHOUT FASCINATION; LIVE IN SNOW HOUSES AND SKIN HUTS

(London, Oct 5)—George H. Wilkins of London, a member of the just completed Canadian government Arctic expedition that spent three years under MacLean and Anderson, the explorers studying the blonde Eskimos of Victoria Land, Linton and Button Islands, and Herschel Island in latitude 77 about 900 miles from the north pole, arrived in Chicago yesterday loaded with films and trophies of arctic sports from the terra incognita of Greenland gulf and vicinity.

Mr. Wilkins, who represented the Mutual and Gaumont Film corporations, secured important photographic records which will be exhibited publicly but which ultimately will become the property of the Canadian authorities.

"The blonde Eskimos, as they are called," said Mr. Wilkins, "are very interesting people. There is no regular marriage ceremony and polygamy prevails in a good many tribes, but the trial marriage is everywhere recognized as legitimate."

A Bit Chunky.

"The girls are by no means without fascination. They are a bit chunky, perhaps, for our ideal, but one gets accustomed to their physical type before long and learns to appreciate their kindness. I never met kinder or more loyal friends in any part of the world."

We live in snow houses in the winter and in skin huts during the summer. Some of the customs are rather silly for our side. For instance the first night I had dinner with old Mrs. Quada, as we called our hostess on Minto island, she dug into the big pot that contained a mixture of fish and game in a stew and helped out a chunk of meat. In order to make it acceptable she first sliced the meat off the outside and sort of shredded it with her teeth. Then she helped it to me. All this was done with the best intention and old man Quada asked me afterwards if I didn't know his wife was a swell cook. I believe he was jealous.

Sleep Quite Naked.

There is one idea that ought to be explained. We read in books of education that the Eskimos go to bed and are standing—that is with their clothes on. Well, the fact is they invariably sleep absolutely naked, men and women. The snowshoes are so hot during the day that they cut those off and during the night nothing could wear any clothing.

With our first winter overcoat we

PERSISTENCY WINS, SAYS JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER

OIL KING THINKS ST. PAUL WOULD HAVE MADE GOOD IN BUSINESS

Cleveland, Oct 5.—John D. Rockefellar thinks St. Paul would have been a captain of industry if he had been in this modern day instead of a couple of thousand years ago.

His remarks came from the sermon he heard Rev. Dr. W. W. Hinckley deliver during the Sunday morning service at the Zion Methodist Church, in which Paul was cited as a model of unceasing power. "That's right," Rockefellar said. "Paul was persistent and he would have made a successful man in business or industry today for his persistence that makes a successful man in business or industry. It's persistence that gets things these days."

Mr. Rockefellar said he had taken precautions to prevent the spread of an infantile paralysis epidemic near Tarrytown estate to Pocantico Hills. He expects to return there about the middle of October.
